Walnuts May Help in Inhibiting Colon Cancer

A new study published suggests that walnut lipid extracts (WLE) may exert anti-colon cancer effect by targeting colon cancer stem cells. This is the first project in Korea supported by California Walnut Commission. The findings from a joint study conducted by renowned researchers in Korea was published in Food Science and Biotechnology.